Over the Desktop

Although I have served as editor of The Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine for more than 3½ years, I am still a little awed by the fact that I have the opportunity to write about whatever I desire in this column. It is one of the privileges of my job for which I am most grateful.

Sometimes I am more inspired and, hopefully, inspiring than others. But usually I write about some issue or event or person that seems important to me, and which I hope will be meaningful to you. In this issue, I choose to write about a very special Theta.

I first met Grand President Sue Supple when she interviewed me for the editor's position in the Fall of 1984. I remember that I was struck by her straightforward, but gracious manner. She asked tough, pertinent questions; yet she was caring and considerate. I didn't know then that my first impression was to be maintained and strengthened in the years to follow.

When Supple completes her term as Grand President of Kappa Alpha Theta in June, in my opinion, she will have done much more than fulfill a traditional leadership role. She has been a driving force behind the Fraternity's recognition as a strong, innovative women's organization.

Very simply, Supple wants Kappa Alpha Theta to be its best. She cherishes the original aims of our founders and builds on them in an effort to keep the Fraternity meaningful to the women of today and the future. Toward that end, she has taken time to explain and interpret Theta's ritual, and its relevance today, to hundreds of Theta collegians.

Supple also wants every individual Theta to be her best. How much easier to sit back and do the same old thing that's been done before—to glide along on past accomplishments. But in fine Theta tradition, Supple hasn't settled for that.

She has worked to initiate and support meaningful, innovative programming by Fraternity officers. She has helped bring current issues that are relevant to our members to the forefront of the Fraternity and the Greek world. She has been creative and honest and, in doing so, has risked criticism. But Supple's not afraid to put herself on the line: She always does her homework; she believes in herself; and most of all she believes in Theta.

I've heard some say that Sue Supple just looks like a president should. I think it's true that she does have a certain presidential manner. But she also has made herself accessible to so many Theta collegians and alumnae. At every one of the many events and meetings she attends, she makes special efforts to get to know individual Thetas, to answer questions and to learn from them.

Supple has been a strong influence on me. She has always given me the freedom to do my job as I see fit. But she has made important suggestions for Magazine subjects and has provided valuable insights and information when requested.

Long after Sue Supple leaves her position as Grand President, the Fraternity and many individual Thetas will continue to benefit from her leadership and the fine example she has set by doing her best to live Theta's ideals.

Thanks Sue Supple.

Loyally,

Susan Holloway
Editor

Minnesota Chapter to Recolonize

Upsilon Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta will be recolonized at the University of Minnesota this fall. Please tell Theta legacies and other outstanding young women interested in going through rush to take a look at the Theta chapter at Minnesota.

Alumnae should send information about legacies and recommendation information to: Alumnae District President Kathy Pieper (Mrs. Richard), 14 E. St. Albans Rd., Hopkins, MN 55343. Collegians who will be transferring to the University of Minnesota should also send information to Pieper. The chapter will be looking for prospective members from freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes.

SET

This is a special time for sharpening skills and celebrating sisterhood. Finalize your plans and polish rushing techniques. Work together to fine tune your chapter's rush priorities and generate honest enthusiasm. You're set!

READY

Plan ahead for a successful rush. Determine the needs of your chapter and the rushees. Talk about the kind of rush your chapter wants, and work on skills. Assign committees, and make plans for events. You're ready!

RUSH!

This is it—your chapter's opportunity to tell who your members are and to let rushees learn all about Theta. Work hard, be your best selves and have fun. Rush!

READY . . .

Getting ready for rush begins with a close analysis of your chapter, your school and the rushees on your campus.

What type of students attend your school and participate in rush? How can Theta help them meet their needs? Who are the Thetas on your campus? What unique qualities do your members have individually and as a chapter? What is your chapter's image? What are your chapter's resources—individual abilities, alumnae support, finances—and how can these best be used during rush?

At a spring rush workshop, develop a chapter yardstick, which spells out your chapter's membership needs for the year. Be ready to share it with alumnae so they can be looking for prospective rushees to meet the needs of your chapter.

At the workshop, discuss conversation skills, hospitality, appropriate dress and grooming. Complete plans for all rush events and parties, including decorations, music, food, nametags and favors.

Assign committees and clearly state duties so that responsibilities may be carried out. Chairmen for each day of rush should know exactly what must be completed when they return to school. Town chairmen should know who to contact while at home and should already be working with alumnae to identify good prospects.

SET . . .

A really successful rush is kicked off with a pre-rush workshop. Hard work, cooperation, pride and enthusiasm are needed from every member.

Develop a theme for this workshop and have a carefully planned schedule to accomplish all that must be done before rush. Be sure to build in time for fun and togetherness.

Complete party plans and polish skills during the workshop. Spend time studying rushees' names and interests so each rush will be personalized. Review membership selection procedures and study Panhellenic rush rules. Practice good rushing techniques and be sure that every member is well-informed about Theta and all that the Fraternity offers.

Rush policies, duties, schedules and expectations of every member and committee should be so well-defined that the chapter operates as a finely-tuned machine. With all preparations made, you're set for rush.

RUSH!

Now all the preparation pays off. Rush is hard work for all members, but it can be fun too!

Rush provides your chapter with an opportunity to tell who you are as Thetas, what you do, what you have achieved and what you have to offer future Thetas. It's your chance to demonstrate the chapter's uniqueness, commitment to scholarship and campus, talent, sisterhood and sincerity.

You can share Theta's heritage, from Bettie Locke's fierce determination to be an educated, independent woman, to the founding and development of your chapter. Show your sisterhood in words and—more clearly—in actions. Appeal to the best in today's college women. Be open and honest about standards and expectations of members. When you rush honestly, you allow rushees to make honest choices based on reality.

Welcome to friendship all rushees, and invite to membership those whose personal qualities seem most compatible with the goals and ideals of your chapter.

READY . . . SET . . . RUSH!

ALUMNAE: GET READY FOR RUSH

All Thetas, including alumnae, need to get ready to insure a successful rush for each college chapter. What can you do?

Check with the college chapters to which you plan to send recommendations as to their membership needs. Send a recommendation to a chapter, introducing an outstanding high school student you know. Talk to that student about the benefits of Greek and Theta membership. Talk to the college chapter's rush adviser, and volunteer to lend extra help during rush.

If you're a rush recommendation board chairman (RRBC) or an area rush representative (ARR), contact Theta collegians in your city to see who they know from area high schools that would be qualified, prospective rushees.

Please do your part to help Theta get ready for rush!

DIRECTIONS FOR USE OF MEMBERSHIP RECOMMENDATIONS

ALUMNAE:

1. Write recommendation on Membership Recommendation form. (See page 7.)
2. Complete form as fully as possible.
3. Include a photo of the rushee if possible.
4. Send the form to the rush recommendation board chairman who covers the rushee's community. (See page 28.)
5. Tell the young woman for whom you've written the recommendation about the advantages of Fraternity membership, even though she may be undecided about going through rush.

COLLEGIANS:

Refer to the 1987-1988 Rush Personnel Roster and current supplements.

RUSH RECOMMENDATION BOARDS:

Send recommendation with the board's evaluations and chairman's signature to the college chapter's recommendation chairman or rush adviser. (See page 24.)

AUTHORIZED RUSH REPRESENTATIVES:

Send recommendation with signature, on the back of the form, to the college chapter's recommendation chairman or rush adviser. (See page 24.)

Recommendation forms are available from Central Office or your local rush recommendation board. Or you may use the recommendation form printed in this issue on page 7. (If you need additional forms, please have the form copied at your local printer.)

Please send recommendations by July 15 for chapters with fall rush, and by August 15 for chapters with deferred rush. (See page 24.)

Legacy Introduction Form

Complete this form and send it to the Theta chapter on the campus your legacy plans to attend. Please send it as soon as possible after your legacy makes her college choice. (See page 37 for college chapter addresses.)

Message from the PRESIDENT

This is my last column as Grand President. It seems a good time to review the accomplishments of the last four years and, at the same time, to look to the concerns of the future.

This has been an unprecedented period of growth for Kappa Alpha Theta: 12 new chapters installed in a four-year period, and the first new Canadian chapter in 50 years. More campuses are already committed. This growth reflects the increased interest in Greek membership, but it is also the result of an aggressive extension program.

It is true that bigger is not always better, but if we are to be competitive, we must continue to grow. We must extend to campuses with strong academic standings—schools that will survive the decreased enrollments of the 1990s. We cannot be afraid of having too many chapters. If there are no alumnae in the area, we must seek other ways to support those chapters.

One of the questions of the future for extension may well be the single-sex status of fraternities and sororities. A recent civil-rights bill may cause colleges and universities to lump social fraternities with student organizations, and thus press for co-educational fraternities. Our existence may be at risk.

We must stand up for our rights. Those women who press for co-educational fraternities do not value the opportunities women's fraternities provide for developing leadership and life skills within a supportive group unencumbered by men. They do not understand that at Yale, Chicago, Columbia, Guelph and other universities, it was the women themselves who formed groups and petitioned Theta for membership. And they did so for the very same reasons that prompted Bettie Locke to form Kappa Alpha Theta in 1870. They are women who believe that education is the primary purpose of college, but who seek support from other women, and a social life and friends outside the classroom.

In the past four years, Kappa Alpha Theta programming has been current and relevant. We are recognized as a fraternity willing to face difficult issues. We are dealing with date rape, cocaine abuse, AIDS, men's fraternity activities that are demeaning to women, stress, grief, and alcohol abuse. If we are to remain relevant in the 1990s, I believe it is increasingly important to continue to address the needs of today's young people. We cannot solve all the problems, but we have an obligation to face them.

One of the biggest issues we must face for the future is diversity. Demographers predict that by the year 2000, one of every three Americans will be non-white. University presidents and trustees are committed to increasing minority student enrollment on every campus. Faculty and student services administrators are beginning to address the needs of these students and look to the Greek organizations for some indication of support. I have been asked if Theta is doing anything to prepare our members to live in the multi-ethnic, multi-lingual society of the future.

We can play a small role in this process. Greek organizations are highly visible and identifiable. Our attitudes can make a difference. We are friendship groups, and one of our strengths lies in our unity of purpose and congeniality. But that does not mean that we must shut ourselves off from groups that are different.

Exposure to different ideas, different backgrounds and different cultures help all of us to grow. Kappa Alpha Theta can help our collegiate members prepare for life after college by encouraging activities that promote interchange between diverse cultures and promoting positive racial attitudes.

Our final major area of accomplishment is a change in outlook on financing Fraternity projects. Our view has been that if the project merits it, the money can be found. We must spend the time, effort and money to live up to our heritage. The Foundation has supported the educational programs of the Fraternity at a record level. The Foundation makes it possible for the Fraternity to be recognized as a leader in the Greek world. Your continued generous support of the Foundation makes this possible.

I am proud to belong to Kappa Alpha Theta. I am proud of the record of the two Councils it has been my privilege to chair. I am proud of the outstanding job our Foundation does in soliciting funds and seeing that they are wisely spent. I am proud of the staff, which has made dreams and plans a reality. I am grateful for all that Theta has given me, and I will continue to serve on the local level to try to repay that debt.

I believe our heritage and the examples of our founders—who persevered, who strove for independence, who took risks above ordinary women of their day, who believed in a God who would bless their efforts—challenge us to be the best we can be.

Loyally,

Human Dignity

I have just finished reading the Kappa Alpha Theta Statement on Human Dignity and accompanying article in your magazine. Congratulations. You have demonstrated once again the leadership role the women of Kappa Alpha Theta have long played in the interfraternal world.

It is my fervent hope that every fraternity man, and most particularly every member of Delta Sigma Phi, will support this resolution whole-heartedly. I know of no fraternity which does not include among its most basic tenets an insistence upon a basic respect for women by its members, and it is most fitting that Theta chapters assist us in demonstrating to our members that chivalry is a value to be practiced as well as preached.

I wish you the best of luck upholding this great ideal.

Fraternally,
Scott Cooper
Director of Communications
Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity

As a graduate, The Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine is a continuing link in what Theta stands for, continues to strive for, and for acknowledging Thetas who have excelled.

I was impressed with the winter issue's cover and inside story on Human Dignity. I believe in what the Statement on Human Dignity stands for and aspires to accomplish. I also respect the individuals and chapters who have had the courage to boycott events which are demeaning and degrading to women.

However, I feel the Sigma Chis shouldn't be the scapegoats since the issue goes beyond Derby Days.

The Human Dignity article included three Sigma Chi Chapters on three pages. The article was well written and addressed an important issue, but the article didn't include coverage of individuals or chapters who displayed courage on their stand of boycotting degrading events by other fraternities. The article neglected to include other fraternity events, functions, house party themes, and party "favors" which are in poor taste, offensive, and degrading to women.

I have not encountered nor have I heard of a situation or event involving the Iowa State Sigma Chis sponsoring an event or acting in a manner that would be offensive or humiliating to women.

I know that not all Derby Days are approached with the poor taste and offensiveness portrayed in the article. At Iowa State, Derby Days included the "stealing" of derbys, a trampoline marathon, volleyball games, and the election of a Derby Darling.

Contrary, this is not humiliating or demeaning to women. It is to recognize the outstanding achievements of a member from each sorority (chosen by her sisters) based on her academic achievement, contribution to her sorority, and involvement on campus.

I have always been treated with respect, courtesy and dignity when at the Sigma Chi house and by its members. I can not say the same about other fraternities who do make a mockery of women.

The actions by a few should not tarnish the achievements by another chapter.

Loyally in Theta,
Lisa Knight-Mallinson
Gamma Pi/Iowa State

Congratulations again on a fine issue of your magazine. Your Winter 1987 issue boldly addresses a concern on many campuses. As the Advisor to Sororities at the University of Georgia, I am continually concerned by the lack of respect for human dignity as represented by the incidents of degrading activities, sexual harassment and substance abuse in our system. I am so pleased your Fraternity stands behind your principles by offering support for those members who challenge these abuses as affronts to all our noble fraternal values. I applaud Theta for your leadership.

I am also writing to share with you copies of the correspondence I had with Sigma Chi concerning their Derby event at Georgia. Contrary to your editor's note, Sigma Chi has received complaints and the University of Georgia was a "specific campus named." Much to my chagrin, the response from Sigma Chi was an ineffective side step. The changes we were able to make can only be attributed to the strength of response I received from each sorority national on our campus. I am thankful for their support.

The support I received certainly helps make my work more effective and the job more valuable.

Sincerely,
Suzanne Colgan
Advisor to Sororities
University of Georgia

A copy of the Winter 1987 issue of The Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine was shared with me by a member of the Gamma Chi Chapter at CSU, Fresno. Of particular interest was the article on "Human Dignity."

In recent months, articles, resolutions, and statements have been coming across my desk with particular reference to self-worth and alcohol. I applaud Kappa Alpha Theta's position on human dignity as presented in the Winter 1987 article. The Gamma Chi Chapter has often been a leader with regards to certain issues and concerns, and it is my belief that with encouragement and support they will continue to do so.

Although this article specifically references Sigma Chi Derby Days we all know many other activities and traditions, both at the chapter as well as individual level, that

DIVERSITY

Imagine that it's rush week on your college campus.

A young woman walks through the door of the chapter house. She's bright, personable, interesting, attractive. You learn that she has top grades and was a leader in high school activities. She's just the sort of person your chapter is looking for.

And one more thing: She's black. Or perhaps she's Hispanic or Jewish. Maybe she's an older student, or her parents are from India, or she's blind.

What are the chances that someone, who has all the characteristics your chapter finds desirable plus any one of the above, would be asked to become a member of your chapter?

An exercise similar to this one was conducted by Diane DeVestern, associate dean of students at West Chester University, West Chester, Penn. during the NorthEastern Panhellenic Conference in March.

At the workshop, called "Elitism in the Greek System: Myth or Reality?" a large audience of Greek members was asked to list all the traits they look for in prospective members. Then they were asked to rate what chance each of a variety of individuals possessing those desirable traits would have of becoming a member. The list of people ranged from a non-traditional student of age 26, to an international student from Iran, to a deaf student.

When the scores were tallied, many workshop participants admitted that most of the people on the list would have had little or no chance of becoming members.

DeVestern asked the group to consider why those decisions were made. The answer? The individuals were excluded only because they were different.

Diversity, although certainly not a new issue, is one that's receiving renewed attention from institutions of higher education across the country. It is already having a major impact on many campuses and will, increasingly, in the 1990s. That impact promises to affect the Greek community.

At the heart of the concern with diversity are two serious motivators: morality and survival. An article called "The Necessity of Diversity" in the Spring 1987 Junior League Review expressed it simply: "... Diversification is not only the right thing to do, it is the best thing to do."

A Question of Survival

Colleges and universities are expected to experience declining enrollments as the number of high school graduates decreases. That decrease is due to a decline in births following the baby boom, which was primarily a white and middle-class phenomenon. Indeed, demographic studies indicate that by the year 2,000, one of three students in the United States will be non-white.

In a study titled "Guess Who's Coming to College: Your Students In 1990," Researcher Harold Hodgkinson reports, "Higher education will have to get used to a smaller contingent of white, middle-class students from suburban backgrounds in their entering classes and will have to provide new programs in order to attract minorities, older adults . . ."

"Diversity is a bread and butter issue for universities," says Polly Coddington, associate dean of admissions at DePauw University, a small, liberal arts school in Greencastle, Ind.—home of Theta's founding chapter. "Majority population numbers are down, and the number of minorities is increasing. We're looking to minority students to help keep enrollment up."

How does this affect the Greek community?

DeVestern says, "In the 1990s, the student population will be older and more diverse. In order to survive, Greek groups need to be expanding their horizons."

Stacy Campos, Greek advisor at the University of California, Berkeley, explains, "If campuses continue to diversify—and it appears they will—and Greeks don't diversify, the Greek system will have a smaller pool of students from which to draw."

The Right Thing to Do

Diversity is not just a question of numbers and survival.

"We feel it's time to be diversifying for good moral reasons," says Coddington. "DePauw has been traditionally very white. Are we providing anyone with a realistic picture of the world as it's going to be?"

Coddington's concern is echoed by many college and university student services administrators.

"All white and all the same is not the real world," says DeVestern. "One of the missions of higher education is to challenge students to explore their values. We should be helping shape young adults so that as they go out into society, they will take positive values to their places of work and their neighborhoods."

Leaders within the Greek system and those who work closely with the Greek community are also concerned about diversity.

Berkeley Greek Advisor Campos says, "Over the last five years, the University has made a concerted effort to make the student population reflect the diverse population of California. It is part of our educational mission to learn about different types of people and cultures. We want the Greek community to reflect the diversity of the student population. The biggest criticism of the Greek system—next to alcohol abuse—is its lack of diversity."

Kappa Alpha Theta's Grand Council has stated the need to identify trends in campus demographics and to reflect those changes through membership recruitment and education. And Grand President Sue Supple spoke out about diversity in a recent issue of The Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine: "As our young people grow up in this ethnically diverse world, they make friends from all races, and they believe these friends should be welcomed by everyone as sisters. Many of you would agree. However, all of us must come to grips with the changing face of America . . ."

Campus Diversification

From Berkeley to Brown, colleges and universities—including Ivy League institutions, private colleges and large state universities—are making major diversification efforts. Minority recruitment staff are working to increase minority enrollment (particularly blacks, whose numbers are declining on college campuses) through special programs, which include visits to predominantly minority high schools, minority leadership awards and scholarships for qualified minorities.

But recruiting is only part of the task. Schools are also increasing efforts to retain minority students by tive in doing something about diversifying the Greek community at Berkeley. She says, "Greek members felt they were missing out, so they did something about it."

Three years ago at a Greek Council meeting, campus fraternity and sorority presidents decided to form a Diversity Committee. Each Greek organization on campus now has an ethnic diversity representative who serves on the committee.

The Greek Diversity Committee has developed a three-point plan designed to encourage diversity in the Greek system. The first part of the plan—external education—is a public relations effort aimed at interesting minorities in rush. Efforts include special question and answer sessions held during the summer, waiving rush fees for those who

KAΘ POLICY ON DIVERSIFICATION

Kappa Alpha Theta welcomes as members, in accordance with the laws of the Fraternity, college women who are of good moral character and socially congenial, without regard to race, religion, national origin, age or handicap. There is nothing in the laws or policies which is discriminatory against the aforementioned categories.

Kappa Alpha Theta is a fraternity for women, and as such, does not have male members.

offering special academic programs, increasing the number of minority faculty members in order to provide mentors for minorities, and creating a more positive social atmosphere for minorities. It is here that they are looking to the Greek community for support.

At UC, Berkeley, minorities make up almost half of the University's undergraduate enrollment of 22,774, with more than a quarter Asian students (including Chinese, Japanese, Korean and Filipino) and almost ten percent Hispanic students (including Latino and Chicano).

Although the Greek system at Berkeley is much more diversified than on many campuses, it does not reflect the University's large minority population. Says Campos, "The Greek system has not been able to keep pace with the strong diversification efforts of the University."

But Campos says she is proud that the students have taken initia-can't afford to participate and a flyer featuring a list of myths and facts about the Greek system.

Internal education—the plan's second phase—focuses on educating Greek members about racial sensitivity. "Some members have never interacted with those of color," explains Campos. "Our goal is to explain differences in tastes and outlooks to help make everyone more comfortable." Special racial sensitivity training for rush counselors is also part of the program.

The Diversity Committee also encourages Greek members to interact with different groups on campus, including the African Student Association and various ethnic groups. Interaction between the predominantly white Greek groups and black Greek groups—which are governed by the National Pan-Hellenic Council (NPHC) and usually have a separate rushing system—is also supported.

Sarah Steiner, president of Theta's Omega Chapter at UC, Berkeley, says the committee is working well, although lack of continuity was a problem before the chapter made the representative position a chapter office. A number of Omega Chapter's members are Asian, but Steiner says, "It's difficult for me to even point out which members have different backgrounds, because we just don't think about it. We don't have any quotas. We want to make everyone feel welcome and try to choose people who are best for our chapter."

The Greek system at DePauw University has begun to respond to the diversity issue. In the last few years, the University has made a strong effort to recruit minority students, which has resulted in the number of minorities on campus doubling in one year's time. Two percent of DePauw's 2350 undergraduates are minority students.

The University's Greek community, of which 75 to 85 percent of the students are members, does not reflect the campus minority population. Currently, five black men are members of DePauw fraternities, and, although there have been black sorority members in the past, no black women are presently members.

Veda Robinson, assistant dean of admissions in charge of minority recruitment at DePauw, was recently asked to speak at a Panhellenic workshop which focused on attracting minority students to the DePauw Greek system. Robinson says the chapters were very receptive but adds, "I don't know if the Greek system will ever reflect the campus minority situation. It's not that the system is not open. The question is whether the Greek system offers what minority students want. Blacks should have the option of not participating."

Controversial Questions

Robinson brings up an issue which encompasses several controversial questions. Should the Greek system reflect the campus population and should it change to accommodate the needs of minority students? Do minorities want to be part of the predominantly white system? Do black sororities and fraternities provide more options or do they help perpetuate separateness?

Administrators and Greek leaders alike have varying opinions and approaches.

At some southern universities, the presidents have told Greek organizations that they must integrate or risk losing recognition on the campus.

Berkeley Greek Advisor Campos says, "We don't want to mandate integration. We want all students to have a choice."

Grand President Supple believes that college administrators cannot expect the Greeks to solve the institutions' minority recruitment problems. "They cannot expect us to waive rush registration or chapter fees for minority students," she says. "They cannot expect us to guarantee those students a place in our pledge classes, any more than our alumnae can expect a guaranteed place for a legacy. We have the right to choose our members, and we will defend that right to the courts if necessary. But we can help."

We can have diversity without losing those things that make Greek organizations unique. Mutual goals, shared value systems and congeniality are colorblind."

At Iowa State University, a large midwestern land-grant university that is engaged in an ambitious minority recruitment effort, Director of Minority Student Affairs George A. Jackson says, "Although there are few minorities in the predominantly white Greek system at the University—as long as there are no legal barriers, no discrimination—students should be allowed to live where they feel comfortable."

About 4.5 percent of Iowa State's 25,000 students are minorities, and the State Board of Regents has set a goal of increasing that number at the University and other state universities to 8.5 percent by 1991.

Says Jackson, "Our job is to make sure all students have as many choices as possible. Many students don't choose to be Greek, but all Greek groups—including black fraternities and sororities—should be represented."

Black Greek organizations on most integrated campuses exist side by side with their traditionally white counterparts and have a completely separate rushing system. According to "Stepping into Black Power," an article in the March 24, 1988 issue of Rolling Stone magazine, "Today 200,000 students—some 20 percent of the 1 million blacks enrolled in college—belong to one of the four fraternities . . . or four sororities . . . recognized by the National Pan-Hellenic Council."

Most of the black organizations, which are more popular at black colleges than integrated schools, were opened to whites in the 1940s but have remained nearly all black. When black Greek organizations were formed, according to Rolling Stone, ". . . they were a retreat, a bastion from the isolation, the hate and the discrimination of the white society."

Today black groups maintain a strong sense of black tradition. They are known for being service oriented and for providing members access to an influential network after college, although they have been criticized for hazing practices.

Many blacks see any move to merge black groups and predominantly white groups as a threat to their heritage and power.

On the University of Georgia campus, where about ten percent of the 16,000 undergraduate enrollment are minorities, the black sororities and white sororities merged three years ago to form one Panhellenic Council, but the rushing systems remain separate.

University of Georgia Advisor to Sororities Suzanne Colgan says, "There was a lot of concern that the black groups would lose their identities, but we're trying to be sensitive to black issues. I tell students that it takes a long time to develop trust. First we need knowledge, then we can form relationships and finally we can trust."

Dia Davidson, a member of Theta's Gamma Delta Chapter at Georgia, was the first black woman in the campus Greek system when she affiliated with the Georgia chapter after transferring from Emory University in Atlanta. Davidson acknowledges that some in the black community feel that a black student who chooses to affiliate with a traditionally white sorority has given up her heritage. She says, "My family has a tradition of black Greek affiliation, but I was always encouraged to broaden my horizons and I've tried not to lose my identity in the process. I haven't lost sight of my blackness."

Although no college or university would tolerate discrimination, administrators and Greeks admit that it's tough for minority students to go through the predominantly white rush that exists on most integrated campuses.

Davidson says, "Rush is scary for anyone because you're being judged by those who don't know you. As a minority, it's even more difficult: They don't know you, plus you're completely different."

Georgia's Colgan says, "It takes a special person, like Dia, to not let fear dissuade her from going through the traditionally white rush on campus."

Although Georgia's Greek system does not reflect the school's minority enrollment, Colgan says that they are trying to improve the situation.

"We're working to bridge some gaps in order to be sensitive to all Greek women," says Colgan. "My goal is to find a common ground of mutually interesting programming so students can get to know one another. We've conducted racial awareness and sensitivity training sessions, and have formed a Panhellenic ad hoc committee to determine what can be done to liaison with the black Greek community."

A member of that committee, Clarisa Soesbe, is president of Theta's Gamma Delta Chapter. She says that when Davidson affiliated with the chapter there was a lot of controversy on the campus, as well as concern from some alumnae and college members.

Both Soesbe and Davidson agree that she has been well accepted by the chapter. "It was a growing experience for the chapter," explains Soesbe. "Many members have commented on how ridiculous their original prejudices were."

Davidson says she has thoroughly enjoyed her affiliation with Gamma Delta Chapter and has not experienced any outward hostility at Georgia. But she says that the atmosphere at Georgia and Emory are quite different, although she was the first black woman to pledge a traditionally white sorority at Emory.

"At Emory, the chapter and the Greek system are much more open," says Davidson.

Colgan agrees that Emory and the University of Georgia are "night and day": "Emory is a private, liberal arts school, which draws many out-of-state students. Georgia students are primarily from within the state and the school tends to be more conservative," she explains.

Laura Starr, president of Theta's Delta Zeta Chapter at Emory and Davidson's "pledge mom," says, "Pledging Dia was never a big issue in our chapter or on the campus. Her presence didn't change the chapter, but added to it because she's a very vibrant, outstanding individual."

Emory is considered to have "an interesting mix of people" in its 12,000 enrollment, about ten percent of which is minority students. Their Greek system is trying to encourage diversification (including a program begun by Theta Stephanie Caywood, in which black and white sorority members met to discuss differences and similarities) although few minorities participate in the traditionally white system.

Minority university enrollment and representation in the Greek systems remain low on other campuses also considered to have open attitudes. At the University of Vermont, a small liberal arts school with an enrollment of about 8,000, three percent of the students are minorities and few participate in the Greek system.

Greer Greene, a senior member of Theta's Lambda Chapter at Vermont who served as chapter president last year, is the only black member of her chapter. She says, "There's an effort to increase minority enrollment at the University, but the Greek system already has an open attitude. I didn't encounter any feelings of prejudice during rush. I went through rush mainly out of curiosity, but I really did like it, Theta in particular."

Challenges Remain

Despite efforts to diversify, most college campuses and Greek systems are predominantly white and many challenges to diversification remain.

DePauw's Coddington reports that the minority recruitment effort is still an uphill public relations battle with many alumnae.

"This is a drastic change in the status quo from when they were in school," says Coddington. "We need to continue to educate to assure them that the fabric of DePauw will remain intact with all types of people represented."

Coddington also notes that more support systems for minorities must continue to be developed, including increasing the percentage of minority faculty members.

Insensitivity to minorities and their needs—ranging from lack of awareness to racist actions—also continues to be a problem.

Says Diane DeVestern, "I think that at the college level, there is virtually no discussion about diversity going on. Many who attended my workshop had never even really thought about the issue."

Campos says that many white Greeks say it's not their fault if minorities aren't interested in going through rush. "That's no excuse," says Campos. "We need to explore new kinds of rushing—to be more open to those of color, to older students and to those from different religious and cultural backgrounds."

At the other end of the spectrum, the media is reporting a resurgence of racism on college campuses, and Greek organizations are reported to be among the offenders.

The March 16, 1988 edition of the Chronicle of Higher Education stated, "On several campuses—including Arizona State, Oklahoma State, Tulane, and Yale Universities, and the University of Wisconsin at Madison—fraternities are charged with engaging in racist or anti-Semitic activity."

And, unfortunately, Thetas are not immune to racial insensitivity. This year a few members of a Theta college chapter were among those reprimanded for performing in black face at a Greek Week function, in which they lip-synced songs by the Jackson Five and Gladys Knight and the Pips. The students met with members of the campus Black Student Union and offered

Who's Minding the Fraternity?

The second in a series of articles about the women who share the responsibility of leading the national Fraternity.

Central Office Staff

"We want to help Kappa Alpha Theta be the most progressive and innovative women's fraternity there is."
Associate Executive Director Nancy Frick

Some people think of it as a huge warehouse filled with Theta manuals and supplies.

Others imagine that it's the ultimate sorority house where members of Grand Council live and work.

Still others believe it's a place where a group of alumnae volunteer for Theta, happily reliving their college days.

But Kappa Alpha Theta's Central Office fits none of these misconceptions. It is, in fact, an efficiently-run office where a dedicated, paid staff works to keep the Fraternity functioning like a business.

Members of Theta's Central Office staff support Kappa Alpha Theta's existence by managing the day-to-day work of the Fraternity: college and alumnae chapter services, finances, national meetings, publications and more. The staff works closely with Fraternity officers, serving as a link to Grand Council and coordinating Fraternity programming for officers.

Although it is the people, not the building, that makes Central Office what it is, the staff is delighted to work in offices located in the attractive and functional Fraternity Headquarters in Indianapolis, Ind., which was completed in 1983.

In the three-level brick building are a number of private offices and work areas, a computer center, archives storage and a copy room. The remainder of the building closely resembles a comfortable residence—complete with kitchen, sleeping dorm and laundry facilities—for the convenience of visiting officers.

Many rooms serve dual purposes, including the dining room, which also functions as a conference room; living room, which serves as a board room; and several smaller sitting rooms, which transform into additional sleeping quarters for visitors. The Headquarters also houses the Pansy Peddler, the Fraternity's mail order business, which sells Theta merchandise.

The Central Office staff of 21, headed by Executive Director Marcia Bond and Associate Executive Director Nancy Frick, is organized into four departments: administrative services, chapter services, business services and communications. Each department manager serves as a liaison to one or more Grand Council members. The staff of the Kappa Alpha Theta Foundation, managed by Foundation Director Pamela Ferree, work in the Foundation's offices, also located in the Headquarters.

Executive Director

Marcia Bond, Gamma Delta/Georgia, began her work as the Fraternity's executive director when Kappa Alpha Theta's new Central

Marcia Bond

Nancy Frick

Office opened its doors in Indianapolis.

As administrative director of the Fraternity, she is ultimately responsible for Central Office staff, and serves as a non-voting, ex-officio member of Grand Council.

Bond oversees all business aspects of the Fraternity. She maintains custody of Fraternity funds, prepares the Fraternity's annual budget and works with insurance companies to negotiate policies that cover college and alumnae chapters, alumnae clubs, volunteers and staff. Bond also works with attorneys on Fraternity legal matters.

While Council members and other Fraternity officers originate Theta's policies and ideas for programming, Bond, with the help of an administrative assistant, coordinates the implementation of these projects by Central Office staff. She frequently represents the Fraternity as she maintains close contact with officers, and attends national inter-Greek meetings and college chapter installations.

Bond says her goals for Central Office include being the professional, business side of the Fraternity and giving Theta volunteers the support and recognition they deserve.

Says Bond, "Much of Theta's strength comes from the fact that we have a strong group of volunteer officers who, partly because they're from all parts of the United States and Canada, bring different backgrounds and valuable insights to the Fraternity."

Associate Executive Director

When Nancy Frick, Alpha/De-Pauw, joined the staff as associate executive director in 1986, she brought with her a wealth of knowledge gained as a Theta volunteer. Frick has built on her experiences as advisory board chairman, college district president and college regional director to effectively handle her varied roles as associate executive director.

With the help of an administrative assistant, Frick manages all personnel functions for Central Office, including hiring and staff development.

The associate executive director's position often requires Frick to represent the Fraternity to the Greek community and the public. As the Central Office link to Theta's development committee, which is in charge of the Fraternity's extension program, she coordinates public relations for the Fraternity, working closely with the Grand Vice President Development and the communications department. Frick is also a member of the Fraternity's image committee.

In another role as development committee liaison, Frick helps give presentations to groups of college women interested in Kappa Alpha Theta, helps establish Theta colonies and coordinates the organization of a new chapter's needs. The associate executive director also works with the Theta Connection Program, the Fraternity's career networking program.

Through Frick's marketing and organizational expertise, the Pansy Peddler, Theta's merchandising business, has brought substantial additional revenues to the Fraternity. In addition to overseeing the day to day functions of the business, Frick negotiates licensing agreements with vendors selling Theta products.

Frick shares Bond's ideas about staff goals. "We want to be more responsive to the Fraternity's volunteers," she says. "And we want to help Kappa Alpha Theta be the most progressive and innovative women's fraternity there is."

Chapter Services

As director of chapter services, Betsy Sierk, Beta Omicron/Iowa, has more direct contact with Theta collegians and alumnae than any other staff member.

Most of the questions and needs of members are referred to Sierk and the chapter services staff, which includes a chapter services coordinator and two assistants to help handle the volumes of paper work.

Betsy Sierk

Judy Hamilton

As the vital link to college and alumnae chapter officers, the staff has the enormous task of assembling and distributing fall and spring supplies to every chapter and alumnae club, processing all chapter reports, filling jewelry orders and answering a multitude of questions.

Sierk works with Grand Council as the staff liaison for Grand Vice Presidents College, Alumnae and Membership. She is also in close contact with the many volunteers who serve as college and alumnae district presidents and advisory board members. In addition, Sierk attends many chapter installations and represents the Fraternity at inter-Greek meetings and events.

Working with chapters and members constitutes only about half of Sierk's job. The other half is spent managing the Fraternity's Chapter Consultant Program, which is funded by the Foundation and supervised by the Grand Vice President College. At national meetings, Sierk begins recruiting outstanding Theta collegians to become consultants. She knows what to look for since she herself was a consultant from 1983 to 1984, prior to joining the Central Office staff.

"Kappa Alpha Theta has given me the opportunity to build a career in a field that supports women's advancement," says Sierk. "The most rewarding part of my job is the direct contact with Theta collegians and alumnae, as well as campus Greek advisors and staff members of other fraternities, who are excited about the progressive programs offered by Theta."

Business Services

The functions that are vital to running the Fraternity as a business are performed by the business services department, headed by Manager Judy Hamilton.

Susan Deig

Hamilton manages the financial affairs of Central Office and the national Fraternity. Like Bond, she joined the staff when the Indianapolis office opened in 1983.

Hamilton handles all tax reports for the national Fraternity and answers all sorts of tax questions from college and alumnae financial officers. She also manages cash flow and the investment of funds, prepares monthly financial statements and works with the executive director to plan the annual budget.

Preparing for the Fraternity's yearly audit is a time-consuming part of Hamilton's job. She oversees the collection of information and preparation of all financial records before the audit each August.

Three financial assistants work with Hamilton. One processes all loans made through the Fraternity to students, chapters and house corporations. Another supervises the chapters in managing their finances with the automated accounting system used by Kappa Alpha Theta. A third works with Central Office finances: receiving checks, paying bills and keeping books. A financial clerk, office manager and mail clerk also report to Hamilton.

With Hamilton's leadership, the business services staff has become very computer-oriented in the last few years. Says Hamilton, "Our goal now is to make our operation as computer-efficient as possible."

Communications

Central Office's newest department, communications, was formed two years ago when Grand Council approved a staff plan to produce all Fraternity publications—including manuals, handbooks and public relations materials—from the office.

When the department was formed, The Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine Editor Susan Holloway, Gamma Pi/Iowa State, was its only member.

Holloway became editor of the Magazine in 1984. Her primary job responsibilities continue to be managing the publication: planning the editorial calendar, writing original material, editing contributions from officers, collegians and alumnae. She also oversees the design of the Magazine.

Says Holloway, "My goal for the Magazine is to reflect the current concerns of the Fraternity and to meet the interests of our readers."

Holloway also edits other publications produced by the communications department, which acquired a much-needed addition when Production Manager Susan Deig, Delta Sigma/Ball State, joined the staff in July, 1987.

In addition to her responsibilities as art director for the Magazine, Deig coordinates the design of all Theta publications: working closely with typesetters and printers; choosing type styles, colors and paper for a wide variety of pieces. She recently designed the logo for the 1988 Convention, and is in charge of designing a package of coordinated Convention materials, including registration information, promotional pieces, program and proceedings. A publications time line and the Fraternity's new desktop publishing system help the department function efficiently.

Deig's position was created so that someone with a strong design background could coordinate the look of all publications, allowing officers to concentrate on programming. "My job is to give our communications pieces a consistent and professional look," explains Deig.

Both Holloway and Deig are looking forward to the addition of a director of public relations.

The Kappa Alpha Theta Foundation

Although the Foundation and the Fraternity are separate corporations, the staff of each work side by side in Central Office.

Pamela Ferree, Gamma/Butler, began her work as executive director of the Foundation in May of 1987. She works closely with Foundation President Marj Schnacke, the Foundation trustees and a staff of five. Ferree describes her responsibilities in simple terms, "We raise money, manage it, and give it away."

Pam Ferree

This year the Foundation will raise $500,000 through its annual fund drive, and manages more than $1.5 million in endowments primarily for scholarships. The Foundation will award more than $100,000 in scholarships to graduate and undergraduate students at Grand Convention, while the Fraternity received just over $330,000 from the Foundation for educational programs. These programs include the Chapter Consultant Program, The Balanced Woman Series and the AIDS video.

An important new opportunity being developed by Ferree is a planned gifts program. Information about how to make a significant gift to Theta is being shared with alumnae members.

"Making the Foundation the beneficiary of a new or existing life insurance policy is a wonderful way to make a substantial contribution to Theta's educational and scholarship programs through a comparatively small cash expenditure," Ferree says. "Naming the Foundation to receive a portion of one's estate is another way to insure that Theta continues to be an even wider influence for good."

Make a Career CONNECTION

THETA CONNECTION PROGRAM DIRECTORY

The Theta Connection Program (TCP), established in 1982, is a career resource network that connects job-seeking Thetas with professional Thetas. More than 3,000 Thetas have submitted career information for the international career data bank at Kappa Alpha Theta Central Office.

Theta sisters of all ages who are entering the job market or moving to new locales can use the TCP Directory as a networking resource. The career data in this 1988 edition of the Directory has recently been verified by a mailing to all TCP participants, so you can be assured that it is as accurate and up-to-date as possible.

Please keep in mind that TCP is not a job placement service, nor is it an advertising vehicle for individual Thetas' businesses. TCP is a career resource network designed to put Thetas in personal contact with other Thetas. It is one more link in the chain of sisterhood.

A REMINDER

Theta Bylaws prohibit use of Theta lists for commercial purposes.

The women in the TCP Directory have submitted information voluntarily to help other Thetas. It is very important that this service not be misused. It must not be used "for commercial purposes, for non-fraternal charitable appeals, for fraternal appeals or for the advocacy of personal opinions" (RULE XI, SECTION 1).

THE TCP DIRECTORY CONTAINS:

Professional Listings

Names are grouped by Occupation Categories. Each listing begins with the computer code for the member's college chapter (see College Chapter Roster). The second line is the job title provided by the individual on the Career Data Form, followed by her name and address. Within each category, listings are clustered by zip code. If you want geographical—rather than occupational—information, look for zip codes within the desired regions.

After finding desirable listings, it is up to you to make the connection with a personal letter. We advise you to also send a resume if you have one. A sample letter and some suggestions for making successful connections are included in the Directory.

College Chapter Roster

Use the first three digits of the membership number to identify Thetas initiated in your chapter: another link.

Career Connectors

A local Career Connector in an alumnae chapter or club can provide personal contact in a specific locale. Her copy of the directory may have additional listings. She can provide information about the local alumnae organization and its activities for professionals. She can help define metropolitan regions. Remember, it is not her role to find jobs, but to provide contacts and information.

Forms For Your Use

- CAREER DATA FORM: You, too, will want to submit your career information to TCP.
- RESPONSE FORM: Please let us know of your success and your ideas for expanding TCP.

Diversity continued

apologies. The Theta chapter is now conducting racial awareness and sensitivity sessions for members.

Racial insensitivity and a lack of openness to different cultures are viewed by many as symptoms of a larger societal problem.

"The Greek community tends to mirror the values of campuses and society," says DeVestern. "Greeks are no different than others. But they're organized and very identifiable, so they're more visible and vulnerable to criticism."

The Greek community's visibility can also swing the other way to become a positive influence on diversification.

Jackson, at Iowa State, says, "Many Greek members are smart kids who have a lot of leadership opportunities. It's their responsibility to be open. They can help with recruitment efforts and take roles in broadening the campus outlook."

Coddington also believes that Greek members can have a positive affect on campus diversity. She advises, "Greeks should be as color-blind as possible during rush. They should publicize the fact that they're open and that they're multi-faceted groups. They also should educate members to learn to be more sensitive to minority individuals."

Robinson says that Greek groups should try to be more aware of minority issues and should try not to be so "homogenized." She also has advice for minorities: "Minority students need to become more active in campus life. They should take leadership roles in student activities so they gain ownership of their schools."

In addition to group efforts to examine values and become more aware of minorities, DeVestern suggests that individuals can make a difference. She says, "Read about different kinds of people and attend events held by minority groups. Be role models by not contributing to racist or sexist jokes. The bottom line is that each individual should examine her own values, because they dictate to the norm of the group."

Davidson believes the group can affect individual attitudes. She says she would like to see pledge classes required to work in common service with minority students or get together with the pledge classes of black sororities before they may be initiated. Davidson says, "If a young woman believes in an organization and the organization believes in diversification, then that young woman will participate in diversification."

"In order for groups to diversify, the idea of diversity must be internalized by the members," says DeVestern. "Students must buy into the idea of diversity. If nothing else, they should realize that those who haven't explored differences will be at a disadvantage in the real world. They must believe that appreciating differences in others is positive. Until then, efforts to diversify won't be successful."

DeVestern's thoughts echo the notion that "... diversification is not only the right thing to do, it is the best thing to do."

Dia Davidson says, "I love Theta and it saddens me to think that if I had gone through rush at Georgia instead of Emory that I might not be a Theta today, just because I'm black. We must all be open-minded and teach our children to be open-minded. I want my daughter to have a choice."

I read with great enthusiasm and then with a sinking heart your winter/87 cover concerning human dignity.

It begins well: "The dignity of the individual is a basic element of a civilized society . . ." Then the pratfall: "and that dignity comes from a feeling of self-worth."

If the dignity of a person depended on feelings, we'd be in a sorry mess indeed. Feelings are like the waves on top of a deep ocean, calm one day, stormy the next and mighty dependent on factors beyond our control.

Thetas know where dignity comes from or at least we did when I was an active Theta. Every Monday evening at the beginning of chapter meeting we were reminded when one of us read . . . (the Moral Code). We had dignity because God loved us enough to create us.

It is a mistake to think that dignity is granted by feelings. Neither is it granted by society, nor family, nor biology, nor race, nor ideology, nor the state. Nor feminism. Nor sororities, for that matter!

Societies which forget the source of dignity cease to be civilized.

Keep up your good work; you are quite right to defend the dignity of women. But know where that dignity comes from.

Fondly,
Sherry Tyree

Alpha Omega Takes Wing

"Theta—the Way to Fly." This was the theme for the recolonization rush held at the University of Pittsburgh last fall for Alpha Omega, a Theta chapter with a proud 72-year history.

And fly Theta did. On October 21, 1987, Alpha Omega pledged 48 outstanding young women, bringing the chapter to the campus Panhellenic quota total of 55.

Pledgeship was a busy and fun time for the colony members. The new Thetas' enthusiasm was apparent from the beginning. Ten days after pledging, the women worked with members of Kappa Kappa Gamma and Delta Tau Delta to win the Homecoming float competition. The colony was also involved with service, including Christmas caroling at two local hospitals, selling Christmas trees to benefit the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind and participating in the Greek Week Blood Drive.

Colony members learned Theta history as well as Alpha Omega history at weekly meetings. They were fortunate to have 50-Year Theta and Alpha Omega Alumna Marjorie Drescher speak to them about the chapter house and activities of the chapter when she was a collegian.

The Alpha Omega colony members had a unique opportunity as they played an integral part in the colonization of Epsilon Omega Chapter at Washington and Jefferson College in Washington, Penn. Colony members helped national officers rush the new chapter's charter members. Alpha Omegas are now big sisters to the Epsilon Omegas and have helped them with their first rush.

Theta and Family Tradition

"I am the newly elected president of the Alpha Omega Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta. The chapter has really turned around at the University of Pittsburgh as a result of both national and local alumnae efforts and their beliefs that, with their support, this chapter could once again be an active and productive chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta. I appreciate everyone's strong support."

I am writing to tell you about my mother. She also was a Theta (Alpha Omega Chapter) and if she were alive today she would be supporting the new Alpha Omega Chapter. She recently passed away, but before she died, she witnessed my initiation into Kappa Alpha Theta . . . I feel this story shows how important Theta tradition is, not only for a family, but also for the Alpha Omegas who have recently been given a second chance to succeed."

The slogan, "Theta for a Lifetime," was certainly true for my mother, Catherine Dempsey Moulton. She was initiated into the Alpha Omega Chapter at the University of Pittsburgh in 1949. Little did she realize at that time that she had started a family tradition.

In 1976 her oldest daughter, my sister Cathie Moulton Haberman, pledged Alpha Omega. Five years later my other sister Peg was also initiated into the Chapter. Finally in 1986, I, Jennifer, her youngest daughter pledged the same Theta chapter.

My initiation was a time I will never forget. It was in January of 1987 that I was able to share my Theta initiation with my mother and two sisters. The closeness I felt with my Theta family has been the highlight of my short college career.

Three months after my initiation, in March 1987, my mother passed away unexpectedly. I am extremely grateful that I had the opportunity to experience Theta with her and my sisters. Even though we shared only a few months in Theta, we were able to share both Theta secrets and ideals which will stay with me always.

Moulton with mother and sisters the night of her initiation: the last picture taken of the four together.

As I carry on my family's Theta tradition, I will always be thankful that my mother and my sisters were able to share in my Theta initiation and make it such a special occasion.

Alpha Omega/Pittsburgh

Alpha Omega colony members at initiation party

The highlight of the Alpha Omega pledgship was the incredible alumnae support of the colony. Fifty Pittsburgh-area alumnae volunteered to be big sisters to the colony members. The young women held a brunch for their big sisters, and the big sisters hosted a Christmas party for their little sisters. Alumnae also attended rush functions in the fall, a Homecoming reception and all initiation activities.

Many special friendships have formed between big and little sisters, providing the colony members with an excellent understanding of the value of active alumnae involvement.

During initiation weekend, the colony participated in inspirational activities. A loyalty service was held Friday evening and the new members were initiated Saturday, January 9. An initiation reception for parents and friends was held Sunday, following a model chapter meeting.

Special thanks go to the Alpha Omega initiation team, which included: Grand President Sue Supple; Director of Membership Selection Marilyn Huseby; College District President Julie Gilbert; Director of Chapter Services Betsy Sierk; Pittsburgh Alumnae Chapter President Sally Reinhold; and Chapter Consultants Corinne Bergmann, Stefan Streeter and Amy Hayner. Local chairmen were Pam Maher and Sue Warde. Gamma Theta Chapter at Carnegie Mellon University served as the assisting chapter.

Since their pledgship, the women of Alpha Omega Chapter have begun to understand Theta's rich history and tradition of excellence, as well as the many qualities that make membership in Kappa Alpha Theta a privilege. One alumna echoed the feelings of many Alpha Omega members when she said, "This chapter has been such a big part of my life. Thank you for bringing back the strong group it always has been."

Taking Note

OF PEOPLE

Alumnae

Triathlete Kirsten Hanssen, Beta Iota, took first place in the women's division of the Chicago Triathlon in July. The University of Colorado graduate finished with a time of two hours, one minute, 23 seconds. This was the Denver resident's fifth victory on the 1987 U.S. Triathlon Series tour. ♦

After two months of traveling through the vineyards of France and Germany, Alpha Xi Chapter Alumna Nancy Mooers Brown returned to her native northern California to open a public relations agency, which specializes in gourmet food and beverage accounts. The 1983 graduate of Oregon and her partner, Michael Miller, opened Brown Miller Communications in October, 1987.

Brown has a bachelor's degree in journalism, and is a member of the Public Relations Society of America, Napa Valley Wine Library Association and the Napa County Arts Council. ♦

Julie Beaver, Delta Xi, was recently promoted to account coordinator at Agnew, Carter, McCarty, Inc., a Boston-based public relations firm. The University of North Carolina graduate served as president of the UNC Panhellenic Council vice-president of the Southeastern Panhellenic Conference and received her chapter's outstanding junior award in 1984. ♦

Indianapolis Alumna Mary V. Gallagher, Gamma, was one of ten recipients honored with Northwood Institute's 1987 Distinguished Women Awards in November. The Institute—a private, coeducational college specializing in practical career preparation in business-related fields—honored Gallagher for her outstanding success as the founder and president of Mary V., a fashion design/apparel store for larger women, and her remarkable commitment to national and local charitable institutions.

Gallagher, considered a leader in the large-size market, keeps an apartment in New York City where she works closely with designers to fit the needs of her customers. ♦

Carolyn Cardle was a featured artist in the 1987 Courage Cards collection, original-art greeting cards sold each holiday season to benefit Courage Center services for people with disabilities. The artwork for the 1987 cards was selected from more than 2,000 entries in a nationwide competition.

Cardle, a University of Michigan graduate now living in Edina, Minn., has been painting for the last 18 years. She says, "Even though I have been selected as an artist several times, it is still a thrill each time." ♦

Omicron Alumna Rhea M. Mayes was appointed loan officer at County Savings Bank's downtown Santa Barbara office. The 1977 graduate of the University of Southern California will originate mortgage loans for residential, commercial and investment properties; and act as liaison between realtors and individual loan applicants. ♦

"Stones for Ibarra," a Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation recently shown on national television, is based on the novel of the same name written by Harriet Doerr, Phi Chapter. It was Doerr's first novel, for which she received the 1984 American Book Award. Doerr attended Smith College in 1927 and received her B.A. from Stanford University in 1977. She has received the Transatlantic Review Henfield Foundation Award and a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts. Stones for Ibarra was published by Viking Press in New York. ♦

Joan Ganz Cooney, president of Children's Television Workshop (CTW), which produces "Sesame Street," was made an honorary doctor of letters at Brown University's 1987 commencement ceremonies. The Beta Delta Chapter alumna has been president of CTW since 1970. Before coming to CTW as executive director in 1968 she produced public-affairs commentaries for Channel 13/WNET in New York. She began her career as a reporter for the Arizona Republic. ♦

Shawn Stephens, Epsilon Epsilon Chapter, received the second place individual advocate award at the 38th Annual Moot Court Competition in New York City in 1988. The Baylor University graduate was on the dean's honor roll at South Texas College of Law where she is captain of the Law Advocate Team. She will be associated with the law firm of Theeland, Marrin, Johnson and Bridges in Houston. ♦

If you'd like to organize an Alumnae Panhellenic group in your city or town and need help, please contact your NPC Advisor for Prospective Alumnae Panhellenics: Jan Covington (Mrs. R.L.), 1112 Walnut Dr., Morgan City, LA 70380. ♦

Collegians

Beta Zeta Chapter members held a successful "Back in College Days" alumnae dinner last fall in Stillwater, Okla. The Oklahoma State Chapter Alumnae Relations Chairman Jenny Rubin, junior, chose the theme and asked alumnae to dress in the fashions that were popular when they were collegians.

Each alumna was encouraged to provide a photograph of herself when she was in college. The pictures were displayed for all to see. Alumnae and collegians enjoyed playing a "Remember when . . ." trivia game, recalling Theta events at OSU in past years. ♦

Members of Beta Kappa Chapter at Drake University were commended for their participation for the second time in Drake University's Greek Program Council sponsored blood drive. ♦

Three Theta collegians met and became close friends during the Ocean City (New Jersey) 1987 Summer Project, a three-month missionary project sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ. Susan

Lewis, Beta Rho/Duke, Julie Brockhage, Alpha Gamma/Ohio State and Jocey Newbeer, Gamma Upsilon/Miami, were among more than 80 college students from around the country who spent their summer receiving Biblical training and making new friends. ♦

Karin Ulstrup, Delta, was one of 200 college students from ten colleges in the United States selected to participate in a tour sponsored by the Maison de la France (the French Ministry of Tourism) last summer. Among the events during the week-long tour enjoyed by Ulstrup, a senior majoring in engineering at the University of Illinois, was a reception at Versailles. Students were selected for the tour based primarily on demonstrated campus leadership abilities. ♦

OF EVENTS

A visit by Grand President Sue Supple to Psi Chapter proved both educational and inspirational for chapter members. Supple visited the University of Wisconsin Theta Chapter the weekend of Feb. 5, 1988.

She was greeted at a welcoming reception hosted by chapter members and Psi Advisory Board Chairman Kay Welsch. That evening, Supple led a Theta Retreat, which began with a short skit by the Theta Singers. Next the chapter defined its goals and objectives, with the guidance of Supple and Welsch. Supple also spoke about membership responsibility and standards. To conclude the evening, chapter members joined Supple in singing songs and creating a "Theta thunderstorm."

The next morning Supple met with individual chapter officers before an officer transition workshop at which Supple was on hand to answer questions. Supple told the collegians a short story about Theta's founders and how things have changed since 1870. Before Supple departed, she received a tour of the University of Wisconsin campus. Said Psi Chapter President Lisa Youngers, "We were extremely proud to host Sue Supple at Psi and share our accomplishments."

Lori Tatsuguchi ♦

Epsilon Kappa Chapter at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N.H. received two awards from the college administration for 1987. The chapter was presented with a special award for its extensive community service. Members were honored for participating in a variety of projects and events, including arts and crafts with children from broken homes, fund raising for Students Against Multiple Sclerosis and a Big Brother/Big Sister Halloween party. The chapter also sponsors a native American child through Save-the-Children.

Epsilon Kappa also received the O'Connor Cup, which is given to the organization that best exemplifies strong leadership, scholarship and programming at Dartmouth. Kappa Alpha Theta is the first women's organization to win the award, which was established in 1979 and named for a former Proctor of the College John O'Connor. The chapter maintained a grade point average of 3.3 for the 1986-1987 academic year, the second highest among sororities at Dartmouth. Nearly half of the chapter's members are of the highest academic standing in the college. The chapter was also recognized for

KAPPA ALPHA THETA FOUNDATION

Ninety Thetas gathered at Woodstock Club in Indianapolis Sunday, October 11, 1987 to honor three Indiana residents for their exemplary giving over the years to Kappa Alpha Theta.

Honored at the dessert buffet were Catherine Tillotson McCord, Alpha, 1919; Bonnie Jean Weaver, Gamma, 1935; and Anna Margaret Ross Alexander, Alpha Chi, 1932.

Each was selected by the Foundation for her gifts of time and talent to the collegiate members of Kappa Alpha Theta, contributions to the scholastic and charitable pursuits of the Foundation, and assistance in relocating the national headquarters four years ago.

Catherine McCord

During her 63 years of service to Alpha Chapter and three years to Nu, Catherine McCord initiated more than 1500 members. Of McCord a friend recently wrote,

Indiana Thetas Honored for Exemplary Giving

"Your contribution to the practical affairs of the chapter was great, but even greater was the inspiration of the spirit you imparted, transforming cold ritual into personal influence—you conveyed so much by example."

Last spring when members of Alpha learned of McCord's approaching 90th birthday, they began a private campaign; quietly collecting more than $10,000 to establish an Educational Trust Fund scholarship to bear her name and be awarded in perpetuity.

Bonnie Jean Weaver

For nearly a dozen years Bonnie Jean Weaver shared her knowledge of numbers and talent for book-and record-keeping with the collegiate members of Gamma Chapter at Butler University through Gamma's advisory board. She also served on the Gamma House Corporation Board of Directors in the 1960s when the chapter's membership grew and precipitated a substantial addition to the building.

Weaver further demonstrated her interest in capital development through her contribution to the headquarters building fund drive.

Known by many and loved by all, Weaver also brought honor to Kappa Alpha Theta by serving terms on the Butler Alumni Board of Directors and the University's Board of Trustees.

Anna Margaret Alexander

Anna Margaret Alexander is best known for her membership on the Indianapolis School Board from 1966 to 1970, serving as president during the last year of her term. She was named Indianapolis Woman of the Year by the Indianapolis Chapter of Women in Communications, formerly Theta Sigma Phi.

Alexander was a charter member and organizer of the Community Centers of Indianapolis, a coalition of 14 inner city multi-service centers, and the Historic Landmark Foundation of Indiana.

To cap her honors, Purdue University awarded her and her husband, John, honorary degrees at commencement in 1986, making them the first husband-wife team so honored.

The three honorees were introduced by Margaret Emily Stoner, Alpha, 1924; Alice (Deedy) Wooling Roggie, Gamma, 1934; and Mary Margaret Kern Gerrard, Alpha Chi, 1924.

Foundation President Marjorie C. Schnacke presented each with a crystal pansy plate. Schnacke said, "Because of the countless unselfish gifts of time and talent exemplified by the contributions of Catherine, Bonnie Jean and Anna Margaret, Kappa Alpha Theta continues to be an ever wider influence for good.

"Through your gifts to the Foundation, 100 Thetas received scholarships to pursue their studies, and the Fraternity developed innovative educational programs enjoyed by both collegians and alumnae."

New ETFs Announced

The Educational Trust Fund, established in 1974, has grown to number 54 separate scholarship funds and total more than $787,000. At Grand Convention in June, 1988, more than $100,000 will be awarded to both undergraduate and graduate students.

Nine new Educational Trust Fund Scholarships (ETF) will be awarded for the first time at Grand Convention in June. Seven were announced last fall. The following will also be awarded:

Marie Anderson Fitz Scholarship
Created through gifts from members coast to coast, this scholarship honors Fitz, Grand President of the Fraternity from 1976 to 1978. Applicants are to be members of chapters in Iowa, Missouri, or Nebraska, who are sophomores, juniors, seniors or graduate students.

Diane Forst Stephens Scholarship
Stephens, a resident of Illinois, established the fund last year to benefit Alpha Chapter at DePauw University. Applicants are to be sophomore or junior members who maintain a high scholastic average and demonstrate leadership within the Chapter, University or community.

A scholarship named for an individual or alumnae chapter or club can be established through the Educational Trust Fund with a donation of $10,000 or more, which can be contributed in any amount at any time. More information is available by contacting the Foundation office.

The Kappa Alpha Theta Foundation mourns the loss of Janice Livengood Mitchell, Gamma Pi, who served as a trustee from 1974 to 1979.

In 1977 Mitchell designed the original artwork that evolved into the pansy logo which serves as a symbol of the Foundation's work.

Gifts Honor Outstanding Theta Alumna and Friend of Theta

Memorial and honorary gifts to the Foundation are contributions made to honor special members, friends and colleagues; and to memorialize lost sisters and other loved ones.

Of the many special people recognized in this issue are two outstanding women—one a Theta, one a friend of many Thetas—who dedicated much of their lives to Kappa Alpha Theta through unique positions with the Fraternity.

Clementine Allen

Clementine Allen

Clementine Allen, an extraordinary Theta housemother and philanthropist who died in January 1988 at the age of 89, was a friend to hundreds of members of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Allen was the gracious and dignified housemother for the Omicron Chapter at the University of Southern California for more than 20 years. She accepted the position in 1952 after the death of her husband, and became known as "Clemmie" to her extended family of young Thetas.

Remembered as a caring, energetic and truly noble woman, Allen served as role model and dear friend to USC Theta collegians and their own families. Her interest in the students became legendary, and her accomplishments were extolled in 1971 on the old "This Is Your Life" television series.

Kappa Alpha Theta established the Clementine H. Allen Outstanding Housemother Award, presented each Convention year as a lasting tribute to the beloved Theta housemother. Allen's survivors include her daughter, Margaret Allen Hawkins, a 50-year Theta.

Elizabeth "Flivver" Whalton Little

Elizabeth "Flivver" Whalton Little, a beloved Theta alumna who died in July, 1987 at the age of 82, held several noteworthy leadership positions in Kappa Alpha Theta.

In her more than 60 years of loyal dedication to Theta, Little was a Foundation trustee—the first to serve as treasurer of the Foundation. Little also served the Fraternity for six years as a member of Grand Council. She was the last Theta to carry the title of Grand Treasurer and the first to hold the Council office of Grand Vice President Finance.

Little was a charter member of Beta Nu Chapter at Florida State University. She was also a charter member of the Miami Alumnae Chapter.

The families of both of these women have requested that any donations be made to the Kappa Alpha Theta Foundation: 8740 Founders Rd., Indianapolis, IN 46268.
